TIMELY OFFERING OF HOSIERY AND UNDERWEAR

The warm days that compel a prompt change of summer underwear and hosiery are here. Just at the time when you need these goods most, we give you an opportunity of buying them at little cost. The qualities are all high grade and we can sell them at such little prices because we ordered them in large quantities, early in the season, when the manufacturers were not busy. Our stock includes hosiery and underwear for men, women and children, and our prices will save you a great deal of money, and at the same time supply you with good and reliable makes.

Old and New Wrinkles.

Their Cause, Their Nature, Why They Remain, and How to Remove Them.

By a Practical Dermatologist,

Who Has Devoted More Than a Quarter of a Century to Their Study and Removal.

A withered, wrinkled skin! What can be more embarrassing to a man or woman whose heart is young? It is not always advancing years that bring these objectionable characters. Grief, ill-health, study, lack of facial control and the emotions often register their footprints thus upon the human face, and, although, the causes which created them may pass by, yet they remain, deepening with the added years, a discouragement to ambition and a hindrance to the full enjoyment of life.

The wrinkles which are caused by lack of blood supply to the tissues are not deep and are easily and quickly obliterated by my special treatment, either at your home or by personal attention at my office. Deeply furrowed wrinkles at the corner of the eyes, under, over or between the eyes; lines across the forehead and from the nose to the corner of the mouth; falling cheeks and all flabby, puffy conditions of the skin on the face or neck are completely overcome and permanently removed only by simple, painless operations, which are performed successfully only at my institute, and are justly termed triumphs of surgery. By this method the surface is rendered smooth, firm and healthy; the touch of time is no longer visible, the years fall away, and the evidence of disturbing experiences or intense feeling is soon blotted out.

For more than a quarter of a century I have devoted my entire efforts to the study and treatment of the peculiar ailments of the human skin, and, fortified as I am with this experience and the very best scientific equipment, the most perfect results are guaranteed in all cases that come under my care. Consultation, either in person or by letter, is free and strictly confidential. For book with full information call or write.

JOHN H. WOODBURY, Dermatologist,

THIS POPULAR ESTABLISHMENT has been re-modeled, decorated and re-furnished throughout with entire new equipment, at an expense of $25,000. The Restaurants are the most complete and beautiful in the Western country.

THE ORIENTAL RESTAURANT

With canopied carriage entrance at rear end of building

Has been especially fitted with the view of taking care of after-theater parties. One of the novel features of this room are the “Sixteen Supper-Room Boxes” (opera-box style). These boxes will accommodate parties of four, six, eight or ten, and will be reserved by telephone.

IT is the intention of the management to make the Cuisine unsurpassed by anything of its kind in the country. The Service will be strictly first-class in every particular.

ONE of the Finest Orchestras (of eight pieces) has been selected and engaged, and will be under the direction of
MR. PAUL SCHÖSSLING.

Supper Room Boxes can be engaged one week in advance; also by telephoning same day or evening.

Your Watch is Right or is Wrong

That depends on who fixed it last, or whether you are neglecting it. It's a good thing to know the right place to take a watch when it needs attention—a place well equipped, and where only highest skill is employed, where watches are made as good as new—better sometimes—and where no fancy store prices are charged.

Let us mention such a place to you—

Take a pint of fresh crab meat, chop very fine, add one-half pint of bread crumbs, season with salt and pepper and mix thoroughly. Roll one dozen Shrewsburys in this preparation, dip them in light egg batter and also in the crumbs again. Place some fresh butter in a very hot pan and fry slowly.

Crab Meat a la Maryland.

Take about a pint of crab meat, one hard-boiled egg, chop very fine, add one tablespoonful of butter and one-half pint of pure cream, season thoroughly, place in pan, and cook for eight or nine minutes. Thicken with cream sauce, and when cooked thoroughly, add a glass of sherry; serve in chafing-dish.

California Oyster Cocktail.

Take eight Blue Points and open over an iced glass, being careful to save all the liquor; season with two dessert spoonfuls of Snyder's Catsup, six drops of lemon juice, two drops of Lea & Perrin's Worcestershire Sauce, a dash of Tabasco Sauce, season with salt and pepper, put in small lump of ice and serve.

Stuffed Lobster.

Take a boiled or steamed lobster, split, remove the meat and chop fine, mix a heavy cream sauce with some chopped parsley, season thoroughly with salt, pepper and paprika and place back in shell; cover lightly with bread crumbs and a little melted butter, brown slowly and serve hot.

Stewed Lobster.

Take a live lobster, cut in small squares, cook slowly in fresh butter and add a cup of cream sauce, season with Lea & Perrin's Worcestershire Sauce and a little curry powder, salt and pepper, serve on slices of thin buttered toast.

Broiled Live Lobster.

Split a live female lobster, place a piece of rice paper soaked in fresh melted butter over the head, place in a double broiler, season with salt and pepper, and baste from time to time while broiling. Remove paper and serve with B. O. H. Chili Sauce.

Oysters B. P. O. E.

Take the center of four stalks of celery, chop very fine, cook thoroughly with fresh butter, put in one cup of rich cream, season with salt, pepper and paprika, then add a dozen freshly opened Rockaways, put in a glass of old M deira and serve very hot in chafing-dish.

Broiled Oysters - Celery Sauce.

Take a dozen large Shrewsburys, roll lightly in bread crumbs, place them on a fine wire oyster broiler, baste with butter, and brown lightly over a very hot fire, season thoroughly, and serve on toast with celery sauce.

Finnan Haddock a la Delmonico.

Take a half of a finnan haddock, pick up and cook in fresh butter, adding a cup of pure cream, one hard-boiled egg cut in small squares, the yolk of a raw egg and one teaspoonful of grated Parmesan cheese, thicken with a cream sauce, season with salt and pepper and a dash of cayenne, cook slowly for ten minutes, serve in a chafing-dish with small pieces of dry toast.

Lobster a la Newburg.

Split and remove the meat of a whole live lobster, cut into pieces about one-half an inch long, braise with fresh butter, add a cup of heavy cream sauce, season with salt and pepper, when thoroughly heated add the yolk of one raw egg and one glass of Madeira, serve in chafing-dish with small pieces of dry toast.

Spring Chicken

-B. O. H. Style.

Put a young chicken in iced water, adding a little salt, unjoint and roll in flour; put in the frying-pan three ounces of butter and one-half cup of cream, when hot put in the chicken and season thoroughly, put on cover and fry till brown; make sauce of cream and flour to thicken, let simmer and pour over chicken and serve hot.

Welsh Rarebit.

To make a rarebit, put a gill of stale beer in a copper saucepan, add a dash of Worcestershire Sauce, a pinch of paprika and one-half teaspoonful of mustard, and one-third pound of grated cheese, then whip the same until it creams, after which add the yolks of two eggs, and serve on toast, having first dipped the toast in beer, which will impart a fine flavor to it. Serve the rarebit hot, on a red-hot plate.

A Man Who Preached Nature.

I once knew a preacher in a Western town whom every man, woman and child loved and honored. He would come along the main street, and a smile and handshake greeted all. He had a friendly word to say to the butcher. He joked with the Jewish clothier on the corner. He stopped and chatted with the saloon-keeper. He cheered the Irish street laborer with words of hope. His greeting to the banker or rich farmer was the same as to the clerk or servant girl. Not a word of "church talk" came from his lips on the street unless some one else brought the subject up. On Sundays his little church was crowded, and such a flood of eloquence never before came from a man of his years. He was only 28. He talked of flowers, of green meadows, of babbling brooks, of land and seas and mountains. Nature to him was life. And when he died in his 29th year, every store, every saloon, every business house closed tight on the day of his funeral, and there was a bar-tender among the pall-bearers.

Much of my intense love of Nature came from this boy preacher's sermons. Nature is really all there is worth living for and worth studying. Nature makes everything and destroys everything. Nature meant that there should be no pain, but when man violates her laws, she punishes him with all kinds of aches in his body, bones, muscles and limbs.

But Nature is kind and forgiving. If man will go back to her in his affliction, she will cure him. She makes the herbs that compose Omega Oil, and there is no getting away from the eternal truth that Omega Oil is the proper thing and the natural thing to rub on your body for a pain of any kind.

ARE YOU A MASON?

ARE YOU?

"Are You a Mason," the funniest hit of the New York theatrical season, will be presented at this theatre, beginning May 13. This farce is from the German of Lauf and Kratz, and in its original form was acted at the Irving Place Theatre, New York, with tremendous success. It is the most up-to-date of all the farces of recent years, its fun being fresh and its incidents possessing an interest that seems always new and irresistible. The farce is admirably acted by one of the greatest companies ever assembled to present a play of such light vein. They leave no laugh unturned. Every bit of comicality in the piece is reached and expressed by them and the result is an uproariously merry performance that is as good for an overworked, tired and blue-feeling man, as a two weeks' vacation or a big raise of salary. The players concerned in the presentation of the farce are, Leo Ditrichstein, John C. Rice, Thomas A. Wise, George Richards, Arnold Daly, Cecil de Mille, Charles Greene, Esther Tittell, Nellie Tittell, Nellie Butler, Jeanette Northern, Charlotte Lambert, Sally Cohen, Therese Renold, Amy Muller, Gertrude Whetty and others.

As the name indicates, the fun of the piece revolves about the grips and tomfoolery that are associated in the public mind with masonry, although there is plenty of sentiment and domestic complication in it. A young bridegroom on his wedding tour is startled by a letter which his bride receives, charging him with having dealt trivially with the affections of another woman. The bride is angered by the letter but agrees to forgive her husband, provided he will join the Masons. He agrees to this but never joins. Still he gets home late on lodge nights and all that. Many years later their daughter is about to marry. The mother insists on the young suitor joining the Masons; but he doesn't, he only pretends to join. Here is more deception. This goes along until the two gay deceivers run against a friend of the family who is really a Mason. The wives confer, the pretenders are nearly found out and it is only after a lot of breathless chasing that they escape the penalty rightly due them. This is only a vague outline of a lively and multi-laughed story. One of the features is a series of remarkable tests an initiate is put through. It is mirthfully masonic throughout and the great beauty of the farce is, that women get as many laughs and as great enjoyment out of it as the men.

My Dear Sir:- Chicago, 7/19/1901.

It would be unfair to give my advertising in the Theatre Program no credit for the steady and most gratifying increase in my business. Of course the paramount principle of success is honest, conscientious methods, which not only holds but makes a friend of a customer. I have found my satisfied customer more beneficial to me in a business way than much other advertising. but one must get the people before he can serve them. They have come in quantity and quality to quite satisfy me and I feel your medium have been largely responsible.

Sincerely yours

Carroll S. McMillen

2. Ralph Jefferson Esq.

Pres. Jap. Theatre Prog Co. of

Replying to your recent inquiry.

The Most Brilliant Pianist - One of the Remarkable Mysteries of the Century.

In an apartment building in Chicago an old couple named Watkins resided until recently. They differed in no respect from other well-to-do old couples. He was apparently a retired merchant, or perhaps an old time Board of Trade man. For several years they had lived in their apartment almost unnoticed, and of all the families of the neighborhood not one would have been selected as less likely to furnish a sensation. But astonish the other tenants of the apartment building and even the passers-by they did. It came about in this fashion. One warm evening, without prelude of any kind, there burst from the old couple's drawing-room music of the most fascinating kind. Evidently a great pianist thoroughly en rapport with his surroundings was awakening into life a piano that had been silent for years. The first piece that fell upon the ears of the amazed listeners was a wonderful tour de force. The mighty rhythm of the composition never faltered for an instant, tho' fairly showered with dazzling chromatic runs; and the climax was reached with a vigor and certainty truly inspiring. Then after an interval followed the daintiest waltz that Tchaikowsky ever penned. The third composition was instantly recognized with hopeless admiration by listening piano students as Schumann's "Etude's Symphoniques"—that all but impossible masterpiece. But now came another surprise, for the unknown pianist next played "Smoky Mokes" with the keen joy of a man who fully appreciates ragtime.

The next evening another program of piano music was heard, fully as remarkable as the one on the preceding night. So also on the following evening, and for many evenings afterward. Sometimes a particularly beautiful piece would be given a second, or even a third time, but, as a rule, the programs were changed constantly. Evidently the unknown pianist had hundreds, aye, thousands of pieces at his fingers' ends. From the dreamy poetry of Gottschalk's "Last Hope" he would plunge with Titanic strength into Schubert's "March Militaire," or from the sensuous beauty of Paderewski's "Chant du Voyageur" he would return the crystalline purity of Bach's "Loure." Yet during all the time these remarkable concerts were in progress not a note of practice was heard.

The lynx-eyed elevator boy watched in vain for the coming or the going of the unknown pianist. The ubiquitous janitor, under various pretexts, searched the Watkins apartment during the day for evidences of "Paddyroosky," as he dubbed the mysterious performer. But they found nothing. Old Mr. Watkins, in response to questions, always answered briskly: "Oh! yes! Oh! yes! Fine pianist—friend of mine," and walked on.

One thing, however, came out as a result of the amateur detective work. Old Mr. Watkins had fallen into the habit of bringing home five or six round packages almost every evening. These packages, tho' carefully tied up, from their size and shape might easily be quart bottles. So the elevator boy told every one that "whoever the mysterious pianist was he drank lots of good whisky."

But in the end the mystery brought about its own solution, for one of the tenants told a newspaper man, and he one evening brought up a musical critic. This gentleman listened to the playing, and as one piece after another reached his ears, broke out into such ejaculations as "Yes, that is Paderewski!" "Yes, that is De Pachman!" Ah! now we have Caruso!" "Well, Rubinstein alive again!" At the conclusion of the concert he said to his hosts: "You are indeed listening to the most brilliant pianist of the century—I know him well—but that is not whisky that old Mr. Watkins brings home in those round, bottle-shaped packages."

"But the name of the pianist?" demanded several in a breath.

The critic reached for his hat and stood for a moment in the hall to enjoy their eager curiosity. Then as he stepped into the elevator he called back:

"Watkins!"

Watkins! O, nonsense! So they all said at first. But the newspaper man avowed that the musical critic wouldn't joke on such a bread-and-butter subject as music. So Watkins, the greatest pianist of them all, had wasted his life in some dull humdrum mercantile pursuit. But proof! Everybody except the newspaper man insisted upon proof.

So the next day the elevator boy shadowed Mr. Watkins. He saw him enter Lyon & Healy's music store, and later saw him seated in a room labeled "Pianola Music Library." Then he saw him receive various rolls of perforated paper, which when tied up assumed the aspect of the familiar quart bottles. Then the secret was out.

* * * * *

When the janitor was told that Mr. Watkins himself did all the marvelous playing by means of a cabinet-like instrument which he rolled up in front of the piano and which could be bought for a moderate sum and was known as a Pianola, that worthy rejoined:

"Sure, I remember it well. He told me it was a kind of little desk. The old rascal! But his head is level. I'd rather have one Pianola than a house full of desks."

Summer Trip to California

Account Fifth International Convention of Epworth League, San Francisco, July 18-21.

San Francisco is an ideal summer resort—weather always cool.

Trip thither in summer, across high tablelands of New Mexico and Arizona, is pleasant—air bracing, no oppressive heat or dust.

Best way to go is via the Santa Fe, only line under one management Chicago to San Francisco; three daily trains to California, Fred Harvey meal service, personally-conducted excursions.

On the way visit Indian pueblos, and petrified forest, also Grand Canyon of Arizona—world's greatest scenic spectacle, now easily accessible.

Inspect the San Joaquin valley of central California, an imperial domain, comprising great wheat fields, oil wells, orchards, farms and thrifty cities; the ideal place for homeseekers and investors.

See southern California—its noted resort hotels, idyllic valleys, majestic mountains, smooth beaches and lovely islands; its old missions, its semi-tropic fruits and flowers, its numerous oil wells. This important section reached via the Santa Fe cheaper than most other lines and with greater comfort.

Stop a while at Coronado Tent City, the most economical summer seaside resort in California; one restful week in a perfect climate for less than ten dollars.

Extremely low round-trip rates; liberal stop-over privileges; choice of routes returning; open to everybody. All ticket agents sell via the Santa Fe. Descriptive literature on request.

Jessie Bartlett-Davis, queen of the operatic stage, tells the public what DANDERINE has done for her.

MRS. DAVIS' ENDORSEMENT.

CHICAGO, June 2, 1900.

KNOWLTON DANDERINE Co., City.

Dear Sirs:—I must write you this letter because I think every one who works for a result likes to know whether it has been accomplished or not. I want to tell you I can state positively that DANDERINE is absolutely successful, and the best article of its kind on the market to-day. I speak from a personal test. I was losing all my hair, and had tried everything advertised without success, until four weeks ago, when I began with DANDERINE, and I am so delighted with its success that I couldn't refrain from telling you so; and I want to thank you for your discovery.

Very sincerely,

Jessie Bartlett Davis.

CHICAGO, November 20, 1900.

THE KNOWLTON DANDERINE Co., 263 Dearborn St., Chicago.

Gentlemen:—Am leaving for New York Thursday morning and cannot go without enough of your splendid hair tonic to last me until I get back, which will be about four months from now. Am now using the last bottle of the lot I ordered from you last July. Can you get it to me at once and greatly oblige.

Yours sincerely,

Jessie Bartlett Davis.

"Cravenette" overcoats as Cahn, Wampold & Co. make them are the handsomest garments on the market.

It is unfair to them and to yourself to consider them in the light of raincoats merely. They are dress overcoats that will withstand every sort of weather. This is the right point of view; the only view.

Raincoats that look like dress overcoats. No rubber, don't soak, never wet, no odor. Ask for "Cravenette".

Caught in rain; shoulders soaked. Can't happen if you wear a "Cravenette" coat.

Mr. Gillette's Stoicism.

On the night of the Baldwin Theatre fire in San Francisco, when the "Secret Service" property and manuscript of Mr. Gillette's new play were destroyed, his dresser rushed to his hotel and banged loudly on the door.

"Who's there?" drawled Mr. Gillette.

"Me," answered the excited dresser.

"Well, what do you want?"

"Oh, sir! the Baldwin Theatre's all burned down and so's the hotel.

"Anything the matter with this hotel?"

"No, sir."

"All right; come around tomorrow morning about eight and tell me about it."

Mr. Gillette also remarked on another occasion: "Orangeine is a wonderful remedy. It aids my nerves, stomach and liver, and prominent physicians, who have tested the formula, call it a wonderfully useful combination of curative agencies."

Bon Ton Corsets are distinctly stylish, and impart an upright figure and graceful appearance not produced by other makes.

If you want to create a stylish appearance,
an upright and graceful carriage, wear
Bon Ton Corsets. Finest in the world.

The first principle in dress with elegantly gowned women is the correctly modeled corset, and ladies who wear BON TON corsets are conspicuous for that graceful poise and ideal contour possessed only by those who have artistic taste in matters pertaining to the chic creations in personal adornment. These garments meet all the requirements of the most exacting in this particular, and represent more fully than any other the NEW FIGURE feature so much demanded by modistes and their patrons in every fashion centre the world over.

A Man Who Preached Nature.

I once knew a preacher in a Western town whom every man, woman and child loved and honored. He would come along the main street, and a smile and hand-shake greeted all. He had a friendly word to say to the butcher. He joked with the Jewish clothier on the corner. He stopped and chatted with the saloon-keeper. He cheered the Irish street laborer with words of hope. His greeting to the banker or rich farmer was the same as to the clerk or servant girl. Not a word of "church talk" came from his lips on the street unless some one else brought the subject up. On Sundays his little church was crowded, and such a flood of eloquence never before came from a man of his years. He was only 28.
He talked of flowers, of green meadows, of babbling brooks, of land and seas and mountains. Nature to him was all there was in life. And when he died in his 29th year, every store, every saloon, every business house closed tight on the day of his funeral, and there was a bar-tender among the pall-bearers.

Much of my intense love of Nature came from this boy preacher's sermons. Nature is really all there is worth living for and worth studying. Nature makes everything and destroys everything. Nature mean-that there should be no pain, but when man violates her laws, she punishes him with all kinds of aches in his body, bones, muscles and limbs.

But Nature is kind and forgiving. If man will go back to her in his affliction, she will cure him. She makes the herbs that compose Omega Oil, and there is no getting away from the eternal truth that Omega Oil is the proper thing and the natural thing to rub on your body for a pain of any kind.

THE MAN FROM INDIANA.

Omega Oil

You needn't be afraid to rub Omega Oil on a child's throat or chest for sore throat or cold in the chest. It's the best thing you ever saw for children. It does them just as much good as it does big folks, and it won't burn or blister the most tender skin.

Omega Oil is nice to use, too. It has a sparkling green color, and its smell is just as pleasant as can be. You must try Omega Oil itself to find out how good it is. You cannot judge it by other liniments. Rub in a little of it wherever there is an ache or pain, and the hurting will stop then and there. You may doubt this BEFORE you try it, but you won't doubt it AFTER you try it. Buy a bottle now, and see how much suffering it will banish. A single bottle will go around the family several times.

Any druggist will supply you, or the Omega Chemical Co., 257 Broadway, New York, will mail a bottle, prepaid, for 50c. in cash, money order or stamps. 736

THE APOLLO PIANO PLAYER.

This wonderful instrument brings into the home the very highest grade of music performed in a manner that is faultless.

It is a Paderewski in every musical family, ready for the entertainment of the home circle and invited guests.

There is no piano player comparable to the Apollo in its operation, its execution and its expression. The three qualities that place the Apollo piano player far above every other instrument are these:

It is Easy to Play! It is Brilliant in Execution! It is Perfect in Expression!

The cultivated home can have no greater acquisition than the Apollo piano player. As a means of refined pleasure it is inexhaustible. * * * * * Send for literature and particulars to

"Orangeine."

In its composition are represented both the homeopathic and allopathic schools of medicine, and the remedies included beneficially affect the nerves, stomach and liver, in proportions determined by many years of careful test under its inventor, Dr. P. A. Aikman, of Windsor, Ontario, in his large and long continued practice. The agencies which enable "Orangeine" to quickly stop pains and aches, without reaction also make it a preventative and cure for many forms of disease, as is attested by every physician who has seen its results and examined the formula of its preparation. The almost buoyant influence of one powder normally relieves exhaustion, and often checks incipient disease.
